TECH

Where AI actually helps an interior firm today.

Four jobs it does well. One it should never do.

GOOD AT

The first draft.

Client emails, scope descriptions, proposal text. AI writes the first version in seconds; your team fixes and sends it.

01

GOOD AT

Turning notes into structure.

A messy meeting note or voice note becomes a clean list of decisions and action points.

02

GOOD AT

Making long things short.

A 40-line BOQ or a long contract, summarised in plain words for a client or a new team member.

03

GOOD AT

Ideas for marketing.

Captions, post ideas, ways to explain your process. A starting point, not the final word.

04

NEVER

Let it decide the price, or talk to an upset client.

Where has AI saved your team time, and where did it go wrong?
